ADDRESS

Delivered at the Camp-Fire at Eldred, Thursday, Sept. 6, 1883, by Col. J. A. Kee.

COMRADES, LADIES AND GENTLEMEN—Assembled here in this beautiful grove on this bright autumn afternoon, as the guests of J. Richter Jones Post, No. 136, department of Penna., Grand Army of the Republic of Eldred, Pa., it is proper that we should explain what this organization means; it is an organization made up of citizen soldiers and those who fought for the government of the United States in the late rebellion, and also to learn something of the character, objects and aims of this "standing army."

The first Post of this order was organized in the winter of 1866, in the town of Decatur, State of Illinois. Bradford Post No. 141, of Bradford city, Pa., has among its membership one who was a member of this first Post. I refer to comrade J. T. Bishop, of that city. From that period to the present time the order has grown rapidly and upon the broad foundation they there laid (without regard to former rank) a magnificent superstructure has been built. There is at the present time a membership of 130,000 comrades, and the order is represented by Post and other organizations in the following named States and territories: California, Colorado, Connecticut, Dakota, Delaware, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Kentucky, Maine, Massachusetts, Maryland, Michigan, Minnesota, Missouri, Nebraska, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New York, Ohio, Oregon, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, Vermont, Virginia, Wisconsin, Florida, Utah, New Mexico, Arkansas, Washington Territory, Louisiana, Mississippi, Alabama, Texas and the District of Columbia. Pennsylvania has the largest membership of any State or Department, she having about 26,000. New York has the second largest membership, about 21,000, and Massachusetts the third largest, about 15,000. The membership of the Grand Army of the Republic is growing rapidly, more so now than ever before, and it is confidently expected that an enrollment of 200,000 members will be had by the end of the present year. The Grand Army of the Republic is a fraternal, charitable and loyal secret organization. So much for the character and the organization of the order. We will now speak of the objects. The objects of the order are the inculcation of fraternal feelings among the soldiers and sailors who aided in suppressing the late rebellion; the bestowal of charity to the needy and destitute and the maintaining of a proud loyalty to our country. In our fraternity we annually observe that most beautiful of all our country's customs, the decorating of the soldier's grave. This is usually attended with much careful labor and great expense; and while it is participated in by all the people, if it were not for this organization the dead soldier would soon be forgotten and the observance of "Memorial Day," would be a thing of the past. In this national observance we do not merely put a perishable wreath on the pillow of dust where the dead sleep, but we put a garland upon courage, a garland upon discipline, a garland upon self sacrifice and a garland upon patriotism. We also care for and bury the dead. During the last year there have been mustered out by death 1,188 members of the order. They have answered the last roll call. Most of these were cared for and nursed during their last days by their comrades, and all were buried with the honors a soldier is entitled to. To each of us there is no event so certain as that of death. To each of us the hour will surely come when the pulse will cease to beat, the heart to throb and the blood to flow. The strong arm of industry will be paralyzed, the busy brain be still and all power of motion will be lost. The scenes of earth will dissolve and fade away forever. Cold, rigid, insensible to pain, heedless of hunger or thirst, unmoved by joy or sorrow, these warm, breathing, sensitive bodies of ours shall be carried forth and hidden away forever. The storm of winter's blast shall howl around our monuments as they glisten in the moonlight. The flowers shall bloom and the birds shall sing around our graves in summer time, but sunshine or storm, birds or flowers shall be heeded no more by us. Remember the soldier's duty and be always ready to receive your marching orders.

We are enlisted for the soldiers' orphans and the disabled old soldiers now in Soldier Homes. Governor Curtin, at his inauguration after his reelection as governor of this commonwealth in the year 1863, during the darkest days of the rebellion, promised the soldiers of Pennsylvania then flocking to the field and veteranizing in the field by the tens of thousands, that should they fall in battle their children should become the wards of the State, and nobly has the war Governor's promises been redeemed by the Grand old Commonwealth, aided by some of her citizens and soulless corporations, by the establishment and maintenance thereof of the best systems for homes and schools for these wards known to modern history. Early in the year of 1864 the Pennsylvania Railroad Company donated $50,000 toward the establishment of these homes, which was followed by a donation of $60 by the loyal association located in Washington City and $3, the net proceeds of a lecture given by James W. Lear, of Philadelphia, in a public school house in that city. Total donation to the cause $50,063. The legislature of the winter of 1864 passed an act authorizing Governor Curtin to accept the donation that had been made, and he did so. At the same session of the legislature an appropriation of $75,000 to the soldiers' orphans' schools was added to the donation already made. The schools then became one of the public institutions of the State. Such additional legislation was then had as was necessary to put these homes and schools into operation, and a superintendent was appointed. Since then there has been an aggregate of $8,200,000 appropriated for the support of these schools. Thirteen thousand children of soldiers have been educated and cared for, they leaving the homes at the age of sixteen years fitted for the pursuits of business life, and there still remain in the schools about 2,000. The legislature now in session by general act extended the time of closing the schools finally to June 1, 1890. By this legislation all those now in the homes will be retained until they are sixteen years of age, and about 500 more will be admitted, mostly taken from the almshouses of the commonwealth. Nobly has the promise of the old war governor been redeemed and Pennsylvania placed where she belongs—not only with the best system of common school education, but surely the happiness of the soul, in caring for and educating her soldiers' orphans. To the Grand Army of the Republic, my dear comrades, belongs a major share of the credit of keeping this promise alive, they remembering that by eternal vigilance alone can national liberty be maintained, certainly exercised great vigilance in seeing that this promise in regard to these homes was redeemed. But to the grand old commonwealth, that we all love to honor, let us say thanks, thanks, thanks. Gratitude is the finest blossom which springs from the soul, and the heart of man knoweth none more fragrant. The order of its fraternity work also looks after the disabled soldiers now confined in the soldiers' homes.

By general act of the congress of the United States the President, the Secretary of War and the Chief Justice of the United States are constituted a board, and congress elects nine managers who serve for a term of six years, or until their successors are elected. The twelve have charge of the homes of "The National Home for Disabled Volunteer Soldiers." The principal homes are located at Dayton, Ohio, and Washington, D. C., with branches in Maine, Indiana, Illinois and Maryland. These homes are sustained by the fines of courts martials—the moneys forfeited to the government by desertion—and are in the main self-sustaining, as labor is performed by the inmates and various articles are manufactured that bring quite a revenue to the government. To be admitted to one of these homes you must have been disabled by wounds or sickness contracted while in a line of duty and receive the recommendation of at least three of the managers. The homes are conducted in strict military discipline and under the article of war you must also have been a soldier in the war of 1812, Mexican war, or the war of the rebellion to be admitted. There are now about 7,000 of these old veterans who have good and comfortable homes provided as before stated.

To the Grand Army of the Republic belongs a great deal of the credit of the establishment of these homes and they keep a watchful eye on their operations. A glorious work to be engaged in, my comrades.

Fraternity in deed, if not in word, marks everywhere the true soldier. The principles that are usually found in similar organizations are found here, and the fraternity is a leading principle. No man can be a good member of the Grand Army of the Republic unless he is true to his country, grateful to his Creator and fraternal to his fellow man.

Charity, yes charity. During the year just ended, there have been expended in charities in this order over $186,000, relieving more than 5,000 comrades. He is truly great who is great in charity. This charity, or relief, as we term it, is properly administered and bestowed by a system of relief committees in each Post, and as a result it goes to those most needy and deserving.

The success which has attended this order since its organization, the good fellowship and social intercourse which have grown and strengthened among its members, the harmony, the decorum and propriety at its encampments, the quiet but firm influence for the better it has exerted, the good it has done, the pleasure with which we now look back over the years that have passed, encourages us to renewed efforts to lengthen our cords, strengthen our stakes and stretch forth the curtains of our habitations. The founders of our order have laid for it a good and substantial foundation, not resting on the quicksands of human cupidity and avarice, but on the strong rock of fraternity, charity and loyalty and good will to all. Our charity is not only to be taught, but to be practically enforced. Our brotherly love is not only to be professed, but to be systematically employed. Our benevolence is reduced to specific ends, and hence we boldly stand forth as worthy a place and position among the charitable institutions of the day. Where others have done well to try to emulate their example, and in the great battle for the right we offer ourselves as their firm and trusty allies. Let the memories of past dangers make you ready to stand by those who stood by you, to help those who have no earthly helper, for who like soldiers can sympathize with disabled comrades, or the families of those whose lies with us were wedded in the fire of battle. Loyalty: the spirit which led us all to enter the army, was loyalty. When traitors threatened to destroy the Union established by our fathers the loyal sons of all sections of our beloved country thronged to the field, resolved that the Union, one and indivisible, must and should be preserved, and to that principle and in defense of that flag we on this occasion, when the whole country is at peace and brotherly love seems to prevail throughout the land, pledge ourselves now and forever. Understanding as we do that loyalty to principle means loyalty to an undivided country, we define our position by quoting from the reply of that most eminent jurist, the late Judge Black, of York, Pa., his reply to Mr. Buchanan, made in 1860, when Mr. Black was the attorney general in Mr. Buchanan's Cabinet:

"The Union is necessarily perpetual. No State can lawfully withdraw or be expelled from it. The federal constitution is as much a part of the constitution of each State as if it had been textually inserted therein. The federal government is sovereign within its own sphere and acts directly upon the individual citizens of each State. Within those limits its coercive power is ample to defend itself, its laws and its property. It can suppress insurrection, fight battles, conquer armies, disperse hostile combinations and punish any or all of its enemies.

It can meet, repel and subdue all those who rise against it. But it cannot obliterate a single commonwealth from the map of the Union, or declare an indiscriminate war against all the inhabitants of a section, confounding the innocent with the guilty." Mr. Black has said so well what this order believes that they should speedily have it incorporated in the school of a Grand Army boy. Comrades, we have here to-day as the embodiment of principles and sentiments which are dearer than life to every American patriot, the flag. Look at that flag. What is it? A piece of bunting attached to a pole; not a word to tell what it is, but it symbolizes the liberty, the Union, the independence for which we fought. That flag. A star for every State and a State for every star. "Tis the spangled banner. Oh, long may it wave, o'er the land of the free and the home of the brave." We are not here because we delight in war, but because we delight in peace. You veterans who fought the battles, endured the fatigues and trials of camp life; you who went through the long marches, who assumed the responsibility of protecting the Union, who faced the danger that threatened the country in that dark hour, have a right to assemble to enjoy such a scene as this, and long may it be the good fortune of J. Richter Jones Post, No. 136, Department of Pennsylvania, Grand Army of the Republic, to retain its good name and honorable position in this community, and each member thereof have a long, prosperous and happy life. There are three kinds of praise—that which we yield, that which we lend and that which we pay. We yield it to the powerful from fear, we lend it to the weak from interest, and we pay it to the deserving from gratitude. Post 136, of Eldred, Pa., occupies the latter position in all our hearts, and as we progress in Grand Army work we hope to be able to repay in part, in the same spirit, this grand reception and elegant entertainment. But, comrades, has not the time come to cover up all the old scars of battle? The dead are at peace, why not the living? They suffered more than we; cannot we who suffered less be at peace? These boys in the blue, and those in the gray, went down into the same tent for the night. They put their heads on the same pillow of dust. They have stacked their arms; they have ended their march; they have fought their last battle. Sleep on, great hosts of Federal and Confederates, till the morning light shall break through the rents of the tent and the trumpet shall sound the reveille of the resurrection. May that fraternity, my dear comrades, which should bring the soldiers all over the land into a common brotherhood follow you in life, and when the final trumpet shall sound, may the charity which comes from God bear you in the hollow of His hand to that Father from whom comes all common good, is the wish of your most humble comrade.

Dyspepsia dampens the ardor of many an aspiring soul. Why suffer from dyspepsia? Why be frightened over disordered kidneys? Why continue the miserable life of a dyspeptic, nerveless mortal? Brown's Iron Bitters will surely cure you. It has permanently cured thousands of cases where other remedies afforded only temporary relief. Ask your druggist concerning its merit. Try a sample bottle and you will be relieved of further mental and physical distress.

Miss Sallie L. Poulse, Wrightsville, Pa., says: "I recommend Brown's Iron Bitters for backache and liver and kidney complaints."

Henry Oaks, residing near Huntingdon, who is 84 years old, cut 180 cords of wood last winter.

"Five years ago my life was a dread all the time from Heart Disease, since using Dr. Graves' Heart Regulator the English language would fail me in telling the good I received.—Kate Musgrove, Colomo, Ind. For sale at druggists.

The Highest Education.

There is a great deal that is wrong in our modern method of education. It teaches a man to be a gentleman, but yet does not give him the power of making a living. It stuffs him with facts and meaningless words, phrases and theories, but does not enable him to think for himself and become a man in the highest and best sense. His education is too general and not practical enough. All classes should be taught that Peruna—the great remedy compounded by Dr. Hartman—is the very thing he needs for the restoration of his health and the toning up of the body. Being composed of pure vegetable substances and containing no poisonous minerals, it is just the thing for all classes of people, and all should learn at once that it is to their interest to enquire into the merits of this medicine, for there lies the highest education. Ask your druggists for Peruna.

One of the Invalids.

E. M. PARMELEE, Dear Sir:—I have been taking your Dyspepsia, Diabetes, Kidney and Liver Cure for some time past and have received more benefit from it than from all the $900 worth of doctor's medicines that I have used in the last few years. Before taking the cure I was weak and tired out all the time but now I can work all day without fatigue. Would not be without it in the house. Believe it is one of the best medicines in the world.

Yours, ROBT. A. LOCOMBEYTE, JR.

Who has not heard or been the recipient of benefits derived from using N. H. Downs' Elixir, a never failing remedy for all diseases of throat, chest and lungs. None are too poor to get cured of all bilious diseases by the use of Dr. Baxter's Mandrake Bitters, as they only cost 25 cents per bottle. As a liniment for horses, Henry & Johnson's Arnica and Oil Liniment cures spavins, bruises and lameness at once. For sale by A. B. Armstrong, Smethport.

Almost Marvelous.

The way Parmelee's Blood Purifier works upon the human system. It is such a thorough purifier, it strikes at the root of the disease and by its perfect workings effects a cure almost before the patient is aware. It cleans upon every particle of poisonous matter in the system, expels it and instills new health and vigor through the entire body. $1 per bottle. Sold by A. B. Armstrong and E. F. Richmond & Son.

$50 given if Centaurine fails to help or cure the worst cases of corns, scratches, sore necks or wounds of any kind on horse or man. Sold by E. F. Richmond & Son. Price 25 cts.

How Watch Cases are Made.

In buying a silver watch case great care should be taken to secure one that is solid silver throughout. The cap of most cheap silver cases is made of a composition known as albata, which is a very poor substitute for silver, as it turns black in a short time. The backs of such cases are made much thinner than those of an all silver case, being robbed in order to make the cap thicker and get in as much as possible of the cheap metal. Another important point in a silver case is the joints or hinges, which should be made of gold. Those of most cheap cases are made of silver, which is not a suitable metal for that purpose. In a brief period it wears, bends and spreads apart, allowing the backs to become loose upon the case and admitting the dust and dirt that accumulate in the pocket. The Keystone Silver Watch Cases are only made with silver caps and gold joints.

Telling it Very Short.

"I'll tell it, sir, in few words if I can, but the story [illegible] if you ask me to do it."
"Surely, Michael, but put it short this time so's I can squeeze it into a page of letter paper."
"Here you are, sir, then, and there are thousands of people here in Binghamton, N. Y., who will testify to the truth of what I say. My name is Michael Gallagher. I am seventy-four years old. For about nine years I was almost shut out from the world by rheumatism. I had paid out small wages in this way for years, and had to stop altogether. At the best of times I could only hobble miserably about with my cane. I was bent nearly double with pain and weakness, and my hands were useless to labor with. I was but the poor wreck of a once strong man. None of the medicines so usually given for rheumatism did me the least good, sir. My old friends and neighbors forgot me, as though I were under ground.
"With the end of my nose and the tips of my toes I turned up to the roots of the daisies."
My days and nights were doleful and painful. I had no hope except in death. That's God's truth, and Mr. Mosher, here, knows it.
"I can't tell you how, but PARKER'S TONIC cured me. That was three years ago. I'm lively as a cricket now, sir, and go my business rounds every day, rain or shine. You may tell this to all the world, and refer the doubters to me."

This preparation, which has been known as PARKER'S GINGER TONIC, will be called simply PARKER'S TONIC. This change is made for two reasons: first, because ginger is an unimportant flavoring ingredient, and secondly because unprincipled dealers deceive their customers by substituting inferior preparations under the name of ginger.

There is no change, however, in the preparation itself, and all bottles remaining in the hands of dealers, wrapped under the name of PARKER'S GINGER TONIC, contain the genuine medicine if the fac-simile signature of HISCOX & CO., is at the bottom of the outside wrapper.

A dashing Chicago married man ran off with a Toronto belle. It might be added that he had Toronto New Jersey to get out of this country.

"Like Hot Cakes."

The above is an old-time expression, and is nearly as old as the hills, but yet it is occasionally brought to good use, and placed in a position where it counts or adds great weight to the words accompanying it. As is true in the following testimonial sent to Dr. S. Hartman & Co., by Messrs. Parrott & Son, druggists, Bloomfield, Ohio, who say:

Send us some more advertising matter. Your medicine is selling like hot cakes. Send us a good supply, for we need it badly.

These men know when they handle a good thing, judging from the above. Peruna must be in good demand in that country. Being composed purely of vegetable ingredients, druggists feel safe in recommending them to their friends. Send for the pamphlet on the "Ills of Life."

THE LAST DEMOCRATIC PRESIDENT.

There are thousands of American voters who only have a vague idea gathered from scraps of history of what it is to live under a democratic national administration. To those of us of later years the remembrance of the last democratic president and administration is conducive to anything but national pride. It was not an heroic age. As years pass the national humiliations of that period in the history of our republic had almost faded from the memory of those who were at that time of an age to recognize and suffer in spirit for the imbecility and weakness of the well fed, well-bred, courtly and cowardly statesmen of nearly a quarter of a century ago. In so far as these things were forgotten and the minor faults of present and more recent republican administrations are held up and magnified thus far have democratic hopes of being again intrusted with power grown bright. With increased oblivion of the past comes to the democracy an increase of hope for the future. It is unfortunate therefore for the democratic party that at this time, when their hopes are more lively than ever, the publication of the life of Buchanan (eulogistic of his negative virtues and apologetic of his faults as it is), the attack of the resurrected head of the rebellion upon Judge Black because he did not partake of the weakness approaching positive disloyalty of his chief, and the posthumous reply of the deceased jurist disclosing the secret history of the momentous cabinet crisis of December, 1860, revives public interest in the history and record of the last democratic administration, which when calmly reviewed cannot but be discreditable to the party and create a feeling of distrust of its present pretensions and promises.

While the recent revelations may place Judge Black in a more favorable position before the country than he held while living, it is at the expense the reputation of President Buchanan. Judge Black was Buchanan's confidential friend and adviser, and his main business in the cabinet seems to have been to keep the president from going wrong. He had constantly to be bracing his chief up and putting into him courage and will power to resist the traitorous seductions of the other leaders of the party. The poor president was persuaded first this and then that way, and must have had a very unhappy time of it, indeed. That the secessionists did not finally capture him is very fortunate, and it is the brightest page in the history of Judge Black that he was able by dint of constant attention to keep him braced up and prevent him from arranging with Jefferson Davis and his other democratic friends for a complete dissolution of the Union. The crisis came when the South Carolina commissioners presented their case to the president in December, 1860, asking the surrender of Fort Sumter and all the United States property within the borders of that rebellious State. President Buchanan prepared a reply, in which he recognized the right of South Carolina to be represented in Washington by diplomatic officers, as if the State were a foreign and independent government; intimated a willingness to negotiate over the surrender of Fort Sumter; spoke of "coercing a State by force of arms to remain in the confederacy"; and in various other ways acknowledged the practically independent existence of the States. After all this palaver the demands of the commissioners were denied. The president's paper was read at a cabinet meeting, and Black, Stanton, and Holt at once resolved to resign their portfolios. This determination led to a strong interview between Black and President Buchanan, at the end of which the president consented to have his reply entirely changed if the northern men would not desert him. Black thereupon wrote out his objections, and the reply was entirely recast and delivered in different phrase and tone. The northern men stayed and the southern men went out. Gen. John A. Dix and Horatio King came into the [illegible] after Lincoln's inauguration the war of the rebellion burst upon the country.

Buchanan was the last democratic president the country has had. His dalliance with treason greatly resembles Mr. Tilden's dalliance with crime. Judging by these samples, the country has done well to keep itself supplied with presidents of a different political stamp.

THOS. K. BEECHER, of Elmira, N. Y., is the editor of a department in one of the daily papers of that city, and under the head of "T. K. Beecher's Miscellany" airs his peculiar ideas and views. His latest manifestation is a defense of suicide. We have often heard it said that there were but three classes of people in the world, "the saints, the sinners, and the Beecher family." Taking T. K. as a sample and substituting the word "cranks" for the third division, the computation would be very nearly correct.

GOVERNOR PATTISON has vetoed the joint resolution of the two houses of the legislature to cease taking pay after the 10th inst. He says they must not adjourn and must take their ten dollars a day each. He "is a daisy" reform governor, and no mistake, but a decidedly expensive executive ornament.

WE give a good deal of space this week to the publication of an excellent article upon the "State Campaign" from the Media American, of Wednesday, Chairman Cooper's paper. The article was evidently written by the chairman himself, and we commend it to the attention of our readers.

WE have the assurance of the Port Allegany Reporter and Emporium Independent that the democratic candidate for State treasurer is not a "blasted Englishman." Perhaps not, yet we insist that he will be a blasted candidate after the 7th of November.

THE New Jersey democrats have nominated Hon. Leon Abbett for governor. He has an unsavory record, and the republicans are jubilant as it makes certain the election of their man—if they make anything like a respectable nomination.

THE Wellsboro Gazette is democratic and knows the stuff its legislators are made of; therefore it predicts that there will soon be an end of the legislature which receives no pay.

THE STATE CAMPAIGN.

From Chairman Cooper's Media Republican.

In this campaign a republican can be hopeful without being red-headed. All the signs of the times point to complete republican unity, not only in Pennsylvania, but in all of the States swept by the tidal wave of last year, which began at Massachusetts and flowed on with little interruption across the continent to the Pacific ocean. It covered Massachusetts, Connecticut, New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Michigan, Indiana, Kansas, Colorado and California. In all of these States the advices show that the situation has almost completely changed, and these changes are far more favorable to renewed republican strength than were those which followed the reverses of 1874.

Pennsylvania has taken the lead in the work of recuperation and re-union, and the differing republican organizations of last year—however they may have regarded each other then—wisely sowed the seed for a most rapid and complete recovery. In no other State did the dissatisfied element organize separately, and the efforts made both before and during the canvass with a view to unity and peace, did much to soften the asperities of faction. It only needed a common calamity, and subsequent misbehavior of a triumphant common enemy, to bring all republicans together.

It can be said with almost absolute truth that every republican element in Pennsylvania is now moving together in harmony. There is no reason why it should be otherwise. The reforms which were properly demanded as to the conduct of the party, are now living realities. The purity of the primaries is now protected by the Landis bill, a republican measure. The principles and methods laid down by the Continental conference, have been endorsed by republican conventions, are now the admitted rules and practices of the party. The laws of Congress and of Pennsylvania reach all civil service abuses, and they are faithfully observed by the republican State committee—so well observed that its subscription letters have received the endorsement of Commissioner Eaton, and other prominent advocates of civil service reform. All proper complaints have been healed, and there is little if any room even for captiousness—a condition of affairs happier than any which have obtained in the republican party for the past ten years.

While there has been a general reform of political methods, the administrative reforms so loudly promised by the democrats are all disappointing. It is true that Governor Pattison followed in the footsteps of Governors Butler and Cleveland—his co-tidal wavers—in the number and variety of his vetoes. Some were proper and based on constitutional grounds; many could not be sustained, while in others the governor exceeded his power. It has never been held proper for a governor to veto measures based simply upon the needs or the policy of the people, if these contravened no law. Thus the representatives of the people were the best judges of whether appraisers should receive $3 instead of $1 as a compensation for their services, and yet Gov. Pattison vetoed this increase on pretended economic grounds, where the best economy is found in the best service. The same is true of the Wolverton bill providing facilities for the settlement of litigation. The arbitrary judgment of the Executive was frequently employed where there was no violence either to good sense, sound policy, or the constitution,—and vetoes were fulminated and ostentatiously published simply to excite the transient praise of the half-informed and ignorant. The charity vetoes are said to have saved $12,000, but this if ever saved at all, is more than offset by the extra session folly, which is costing the State a sum rapidly approaching half a million. Even with no pay to members and members the daily expenses are $600. No administrative reform has been attempted which is a pronounced success, although the republicans aided all of them, and several promised were actually defeated by the [illegible] of millions of dollars annually, and [illegible] would not have diminished the revenue because of improved methods of collection, were defeated through the policy of the Pattison administration. It has given its sanction to a bill which Mr. Hensel denounced at the granger's annual picnic at Mechanicsburg, as one which would destroy the government in less than five years. Whatever the merits or demerits of that measure they should not have been employed to obstruct and defeat well matured revenue reforms which did not directly interfere with it.

So that the Pattison administration has in the first year of its power, cost the people and the industries of our State nearly two and a half millions of dollars over and above the ordinary expenses of the State government. It has taken about twenty thousand from the shivering pauper, and calls this saving! From such reform and economy the good people will deliver us, and as the most direct means to that end, they will rebuke as they have rarely done before, the democratic party on election day.

Besides, the people are beginning to appreciate the fact that there was a partisan purpose in calling the extra session, that it was intended to prepare the road for Mr. Cassidy's journey to the United States Senate. Probably half of the democrats and all of the republicans believe this, for the democrats blocked legislative apportionment in 1881, and all of the proposals made by the administration whips in 1883 have been either in Mr. Cassidy's interest or that of his prominent friends. The world has a right to ascribe a partisan purpose where there is a plain partisan object in view, and where every effort seems to have been bent to that object. So plainly has this impressed the anti-Cassidy democrats that they freely comment upon and denounce it, and this is the secret of democratic votes to adjourn the extra session. The democratic division is well marked, and the Cassidy and anti-Cassidy factions are in almost open war. Senator Gordon, in reply to Senator Davies, authoritatively stated that the Democratic State nominees—Messrs. Powell and Taggart,—endorse the continuance of the extra session, and this means an endorsement of the administration. Truth, the administration's organ, owned by Mr. Cassidy and edited by Senator Gordon—sharply criticises Chairman Hensel, and as good as calls upon him to resign if he cannot endorse the programme of the administration. Mr. Hensel will probably do neither.

But let us return to the more pleasant issues involved in the campaign. There has not been greater unity in the republican ranks in the past ten years, and no more settled purpose save in the Garfield campaign. All republicans feel, and the extra session has greatly aided in demonstrating the fact, that all of the reforms within the party, demanded by wise public sentiment, are accomplished facts. As a result the men distinguished for their influence and ability in organizing former independent elements, are now aiding the work of the State committee and cordially supporting the State ticket. Such leaders as Senators Stewart, Lee, Agnew, MacFarlane, and Representatives Landis, Tubbs and others of the House—men noted for their prominence in the independent movements of last year, have volunteered to take the stump this year for the ticket; while such former regulars as General Beaver, Marriott Brosius, and Senators Davies and Greer are equally willing to show upon the stump their fealty to the party and its ticket. The same feeling applies to all classes of speakers, leaders, and gentlemen who are apt to bend their efforts to the promotion of the cause.

Gentlemen who have never been candidates, and who are prominent in business and social circles, are equally cordial—such as Edwin H. Fitler, John Welsh, Wharton Barker, Henry C. Lea, Joseph B. Altemus, and hosts of others who could be named, are giving their efforts and means to promote unity and success, and the finance committee of the State committee, the chairmanship of which Mr. Fitler has accepted, shows that the republicans of the State recognize how cordially harmony is being promoted, and how promising it is as to results.

The only fear entertained by the State committee is that the average republican voter will rely too much upon union and harmony, and because of this reliance be too easy about getting out the full republican vote. The present democratic appeal is to get out not less than eighty per cent. of the democratic vote in each and every election district, and this demand for a percentage will increase to ninety or even more if needed before election day. The republicans should everywhere—in minority and majority districts—in each and every place, equal the efforts of the democrats to make such a victory as republicans deserve and desire.

The Republican State Committee is directing its labors to this end. It began the work of thorough organization as early as February last, and has now a better organization, with larger forces engaged, than ever before in the history of the politics of the State. The efforts of the State committee will be supported by the republican press, and by the efforts or means of all republicans who feel that they can give either or both. When its labors are nearer completion, we will speak more precisely of the prospect. In fact it is effort and not prediction which is important at this time. Let us bend to the effort, and the Pennsylvania campaign of 1883 will show a republican victory which will insure success in 1884.

HUGH J. HASTINGS, editor of the New York Commercial Advertiser, died at his residence at Monmouth Beach, N. J., on Wednesday night. He was hurt by a collision of his carriage with an express wagon on the streets of Long Branch on the 4th of this month, and died from effects of injuries received at the time. He was a strong journalist, well known and respected, by the profession. His death will be widely felt throughout the country.

OF THE original Buchanan Cabinet, Jacob Thompson, secretary of the interior, is the only survivor, since the death of Judge Black. Of the original Lincoln Cabinet, Simon Cameron, secretary of war, is the only survivor since the death of Montgomery Blair. The death of Judge Black leaves Judge Agnew the sole surviving ex-chief justice of Pennsylvania.—Scranton Republican.

FRANCIS MURPHY, the temperance evangelist, has reached New York after a long absence in Europe and has met with a cordial greeting. He is expected in Pittsburg toward the close of the month.

BY VIRTUE OF A WRIT OF FIERI FACIAS issued out of the Court of Common Pleas of McKean County, and to me directed, I shall expose to public sale, at the Court House in the Borough of Smethport, Pa., on MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 24th, 1883, at 2 o'clock p. m.

All that certain piece, parcel or tract of land situate, lying and being in Keating township, McKean county and State of Pennsylvania, bounded and described as follows, to wit: Beginning at a post the northeast corner of lot No. 144, of the allotment of Keating lands in said township deeded to N. [illegible]; [illegible] containing [illegible] acres of land, lot No. 144, of the allotment of Keating lands in the said township, and part of Warrant No. [illegible]. Having about thirty acres improved; one new two-story frame dwelling house, one old frame house, one large frame barn, two water wells, about forty apple trees.

Seized and taken in execution and will be sold as the property of Edward [illegible] at the suit of C. S. King.

A. I. WILCOX, Sheriff.

NEIGHBORHOOD NEWS.

Read Col. Ege's address on the first page of this issue.

Stone pavement is being laid in front of St. Elizabeth Catholic church and parochial residence.

A fair for the benefit of St. Elizabeth's church will be held in the Opera House every evening next week.

Attention is called to the advertisement of D. Langell's Asthma and Catarrh Remedy in another column.

Brownell Bros., have commenced to receive new goods by the car load, though, in fact, they are receiving them all the time the year around.

During the heat of the summer just closed it was noticed that no man was sunstruck who had in his hat a receipt for paid up subscription to his paper.

—The Evening Express, a sprightly and well conducted daily of Lock Haven, has been enlarged, and now ranks with the best of the dailies of the inland cities of the State.

—Services will be held at St. Luke's church next Sunday at 8 o'clock a. m., Holy Communion at 10:30 a. m., and at 7:30 p. m. Rev. D. F. Hutchinson, of Greenville, will preach at the evening service.

Frank A. Crowl, assistant postmaster at Wellsboro who was arrested last fall for taking money from a registered letter, was tried at Williamsport last week and sentenced to three years in the penitentiary.

The heads of the citizens of Ulysses, Potter county, are being examined by a traveling phrenologist who, is highly recommended by the local "patent" paper. It is hoped that his researches will not be fruitless.

Some of our local democratic politicians are talking of attending the democratic State convention at Buffalo next week. Better leave your pocketbooks, watches and diamonds at home, boys. The New York city democratic delegate is a bad citizen.

The friends of Walsh, B. B. & K. depot agent, and Sullivan, B. N. Y. & P. express messenger, are now made to "throw up their hands" and deliver. They are contestants for a gold watch to be given to the one collecting the greatest amount for the benefit of St. Elizabeth's church.

—There are said to be about 60,000 drummers in this country, including men who run around selling on commission. Some of them get $20,000 a year and expenses, quite a number get from $3,000 to $5,000 a year, and the average salary is about $1,800 and expenses, which average $6 a day.—Ex.

—Attention is invited to the new advertisement of Chas. A. Anderson & Co., successors to C. M. Colegrove, in another column. Mr. Anderson is a worthy young man who has earned a position among the best of the business men of the county, and merits the support and patronage of the public.

—Every man who carries a pistol about him when not traveling through a section of country where the weapon might be necessary for self-protection, ought to be obliged by law to wear it in a belt at his side, and have it labeled "emotional insanity," or what would be nearer the truth "the badge of a coward."

—J. T. Donahue, the plumber and gasfitter, has rented the basement of A. B. Armstrong's drugstore, where he will put in a stock of plumbing material and gas fittings, pipes, &c. It is probable that there will be a great amount of work in his line in the borough this fall, and he means to be prepared to do it promptly.

—How do loafers, who don't work and have no visible means of support, make a living? We have heard of the fabled "Philosopher's Stone," but it don't amount to anything when compared to the easy chairs about our hotels and saloons, or the soft side of a dry goods box in front of our stores. To be serious, how do they live?

—Mr. Quick, the beer-bottler, was altogether too slick as well as quick. He very suddenly closed up his bottling business a few days ago, and gathering together his personal effects quickly departed. Several of our business men mourn his loss, and if he would come back would kill the fatted calf and fall upon his neck.

—Some thoughtful person has taken the time and trouble to make this calculation: "If a young man commences at 15 years to drink two glasses of beer per day, costing 10 cents, by the time he arrives at the age of 65 he will have drunk thirty-eight hogsheads. Whereas, if he puts his money in a bank for that length of time, he will have $7,000 on deposit."

—Brownell Bros. have a valuable addition to their collection of stuffed specimen of the feathery inhabitants of McKean county, in the form of what is called a fish eagle. It is a fine large bird with dark wings and white breast, and measures fully four feet from tip to tip with wings extended. It was stuffed and mounted by Emil Thomas, who is an expert taxidermist.

A Serious Charge.

Some days ago Mr. I. A. Putnam, of Norwich township, discovered that one of his cows was badly mutilated, by being cut in the flank with a knife or sharp stone. The cut was a deep and dangerous one, and narrowly escaped being fatal. Suspicion rested upon one Lafayette Ludwig, and he was arrested on Monday and brought before Esquire Smith charged with the crime. After trial he was bound over to court in the sum of $300. The charge is a serious one, as upon conviction he would be liable to a fine of $500 and a long term in the penitentiary.

A Good Scheme.

Next Monday will commence a three weeks' session of court. Those of our subscribers who will have business at the county seat during either of the three weeks will find it a good scheme first to consult the label on this paper and see if their subscription is not due, and if so to make it a part of their business to call and have the date of the label changed to a year ahead.

Donation Visit.

There will be a donation for the benefit of Rev. Mr. Marville, at the residence of O. B. Gallup, at Norwich, on Friday evening Sept. 22, 1882. A good time may be expected, and all are invited.

By order of Com.

W. D. [illegible] is now in New York purchasing goods for the fall and winter trade. He proposes to put in as good a stock as was ever brought to this borough. The goods will soon be here. Wait for them.

Works of Art and Use.

D. C. Young and Robt. H. Rose have each had placed in front of their respective residences very fine carriage stepping stones, furnished by John Digel from his famous Silver Mountain Granite. The stones are finely cut and lettered, and as work of the stone-cutter's art are almost perfection. The action of these gentlemen in thus patronizing one of our prominent home industries is certainly commendable, and will no doubt bring them good returns. If all of our people would thus hold up each other's hands we should all prosper alike.

Baptist Church Items.

Preaching next Sunday morning and evening by the pastor.

The pastor will also preach at the White School House, Norwich, next Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

A Sunday School was organized last Sunday afternoon at East Smethport, P. D. Hopkins, Supt. It will meet next Sunday at 3 p. m.

The plan of raising money by the weekly envelope system has been adopted, and supporters of the church are respectfully invited to make use of it.

The Country Store.

The country store is often mentioned by story-tellers and descriptive writers in tones of sarcasm. Yet the country store is a national institution and a necessity; when one is as well stocked and generously managed as that of T. R. Frisbee's, at Coryville, it is an institution that the community can hardly keep house without. There is no article of comfort, convenience or necessity in any household that he does not furnish. He keeps watch of the wants of his customers, and seldom a day passes that he does not order new goods. His store is now well stocked with everything needed for fall and winter, and for anything needed call on Tom.

The Annual meeting of the Pennsylvania W. C. T. U.

Will be held at Bellefonte, Centre Co., October 10th, 11th and 12th, 1882. It will be composed of delegates from the 225 auxiliary Unions in the State. Besides Mrs. Wittenmyer, Mrs. Hannah Smith, Miss White, and others of our well-known home workers, Mrs. Hunt of Boston, and Mrs. Baldwin of Trenton, are expected to be present.

Women of our State interested in temperance work, though not connected with our Union, will be made welcome. For orders for excursion tickets, send not later than October 4th, inclosing envelope properly addressed and stamped, to Mrs. Ellen M. Watson, 113 Smithfield St., Pittsburg, Pa. MRS. FRANCES L. SWIFT, President Penn'a W. C. T. U.

Voice Culture.

Prof. Harrington, of Bradford, will be in Smethport during the entire week of the teachers' institute, commencing Oct. 15, having been engaged by the county superintendent as musical director and instructor for the institute. He informs us that if any of the musically inclined, whether attendants upon the institute or otherwise, wish special lessons in voice culture he will be pleased to give instructions to a class that might be formed. The professor is one of the best and most experienced instructors in the country, and no better opportunity will occur to those who wish instruction in voice culture. We have no doubt a large private class can be formed among our local singers, and much advantage and help gained thereby.

The Gas Company.

An informal meeting of the directors of the Smethport Gas Light and Heating Company was held last Saturday, at which it was decided to hold the regular meeting for the election of officers and the organization of the company to-day. We are authorized to say with positiveness that the main line will be laid by the middle of October, at the latest, ready for connection with private lines. As to the rates that will be charged, it is not yet determined, but we are authorized to assure all consumers that the schedule of prices will be so arranged that the cost of gas for fuel will be less than either coal or wood. Where wood and coal is so easily obtainable the company see the necessity of putting the rates for gas so low that there can be no competition in that direction.

Dental Registry.

The provisions of the law requiring persons engaged in the practice of dentistry to properly register themselves in the county recorder's office have been generally published. As a matter of curiosity we looked through the registry a few days ago and were surprised to discover that but two of the numerous gentlemen engaged in dentistry in the county have thus far complied with the law. These law-abiding gentlemen are Henry Ahl and N. L. Willard, both of Bradford City. As stated in the registry Dr. Ahl has been engaged in the continuous practice of his profession 20 years. He practiced in the city of Pittsburgh and city and county of Erie, until his location in Bradford in February, 1877. Dr. Willard has been in continuous practice over 17 years. He commenced practice in Titusville in October, 1865. After a number of years he went to Millerstown and from there to Parker, and in January, 1879, located in Bradford City. It must be that there are other gentlemen of the profession in the county; and if so, the query is, why do they not also comply with the law?

Hon. H. W. Williams, president judge of the fourth district, was in town Tuesday.

A number of our firemen have gone to Scranton to attend the meeting of the State firemen's association.

Buffalo Bill in the afternoon and "Ranch 10" in the evening made last Tuesday look like a field day in a frontier town in the west.

In another week or two the councils and the city officials will take possession of their respective rooms in the homliest building on the planet.

The last meeting at the driving park was a most disastrous finale, both financially and in the way of sport. The tastes of the people have changed within the last few years.

James A. Anderson, the sage of Kinzua, was in the city some days since and assured me on his word of honor as a man that Charles Melvin would be elected county treasurer. So, I suppose, this settles it.

Andrew Reilly, the democratic end of the board of county commissioners, is in the city to-day. The mayor met him at the Mechanic street wharf and tendered him the freedom of certain parts of the city—in a glass casket.

I met Bob. King, Chet. King, Jack. Parker and Del. Bishop all here last Tuesday. They had evidently came over to meet the show, and if they don't come back you may make up your mind they have joined the cow-boys and gone with Buffalo Bill.

It is reported that the Sunday News will come out next Sunday in quarto form, having been compelled to resort to this course to try to hold some of its fast failing circulation. It may have a good effect, but it's not likely that even this can save it now. It looks as if its day of usefulness was about ended.

I see you have been pluming yourself on the number of babies born within your bailiwick in a week, recently. Last week Dr. Bass reported six during the first three days of the week, and he is only one among some twenty-five or thirty physicians in the city, and the rest of them were not idle, I assure you. If it's babies you mean, I want to enter the people of the Second ward in that race.

The water supply of the city is about exhausted. The creek from which the water is taken has, owing to the continual dry season, almost run dry, and what is lifted therefrom is of the worst possible character, being a mixture of oil and filth, unfit for any use. If an epidemic should result from the use of this water, which is not unreasonable, there would be blame somewhere, and it would not rest with the people who have all along signified their willingness to pay for good water and adequate works to supply it.

The new house being built by Hon. L. Emery for his summer residence at this place is one of the most convenient and handsome structures I have ever seen, and is a house fit for anybody. I had no idea there were so many handsome things in house building and house furnishing as I saw in this one domicil, and when I build my house I will have stained glass windows with Latin inscriptions on them all through it. It won't make any difference to me what the inscriptions are, and it probably don't make any to Lew.

The "Wild West" as portrayed by the Buffalo Bill party is so entirely new in the line of shows that it is really a good thing, drawing large crowds and meeting with much approval. However, much may have been said of Mr. Cody, it will be admitted on all hands that he is a gentleman in his deportment and strictly honorable in all his dealings. He has always found a hearty welcome and full houses in this place, and probably always will. The company numbers some forty or fifty people with a herd of buffalos, ponies, and such like articles from the plains beyond the Mississippi.

A case of marital infidelity and cold hearted cruelty was enacted last Friday evening at the house kept by one Hannah Linden on Mechanic street, which for shamelessness is without parallel at present. It is not necessary to mention names at present, but the facts are these: The man in the case has been smitten by the charms of one of the bleer-eyed inmates of the house mentioned above, and has been spending his time and money with her to the neglect of his family which consists of some half a dozen children. His wife, on the evening named, hearing of his whereabouts went to the house and found him in a beastly condition enjoying himself. She asked and insisted on him going home with her, but he persistently refused, and when he became tired of her importunities, in order to compel her to leave the house, drew a revolver and with threats of shooting her drove her from the house into the street. The case rest there yet.

I had a talk a few days since with a democratic ward-worker, and he told me that he was totally in the dark as to what Charlie Melvin intends to do; whether he will go into the campaign to win, or, whether he will, by doing nothing, let the affair run itself, and, if elected accept, and if beaten get out of it by saying he didn't want it. They would like to know first whether he accepts the nomination, and next they want him to furnish the sinews of war with which to carry on the campaign. It is pretty well settled that Charlie will not spend much of his own money, but the First National Bank will probably be perfectly willing to put up for all expenses if there is a reasonable probability of his election, as they would be the people most directly benefitted. Withal it promises to make a nice little fight between the contending factions of the party here when the time for the hard work comes. In the meantime the outlook for republican success grows brighter and republicans grow more confident.

Thursday morning another accident occurred on the O., B. & W. extension just south of the city limits, which resulted in the death of one man (name unknown) and the fatal mangling of another. It appears that the two men were riding on the pilot of an engine going out to their work, when, by some mischance, the engine became unmanageable, and running away ran into a flat car on the track, raising the end of it right up over the pilot, and, of course, catching the men prying it and crushing them into almost unrecognizable masses. The man who was killed had nothing about him by which his name could be learned, but it was known that he came from Binghamton, N. Y. The other man's name is Jeremiah O'Hara, of Mechanicsburg, this [illegible]

[illegible] The idea here is that the circumstances of the ancient will be made to appear, and the jury is being empanneled more to look into that part of the case than any other.

Bradford, Sept. 20, 1882.

Messrs. Specht & Sons have framed and on exhibition in their show windows an excellent lithograph picture of the representative journalists of America. It consists of an excellent likeness of twelve leading journalists of the country grouped about Thurlow Weed. The following editors are represented: Geo. W. Childs, Philadelphia Ledger; Whitelaw Reid, New York Tribune; J. G. Bennett, New York Herald; R. M. Pulsifer and E. B. Haskell, Boston Herald; Henry Watterson, Louisville Courier-Journal; Victor F. Lawson, Chicago News; M. Halstead, Cincinnati Commercial; Oswald Ottendorfer, New York Staats-Zeitung; Chas. A. Dana, New York Sun; and Joseph R. Hawley, Hartford Courant. The only fault we have to find in the picture is that Horace Greeley was not given the central position rather than Thurlow Weed. Greeley was a journalist, and will always be held in remembrance as the greatest editor of the nation or of the world, while Weed was simply a politician and only made journalism a subordinate element of his life—a stepping stone to political power and a useful tool for the strengthening of political combinations. The picture was presented to the McKean Lodge A. Y. M. by the Traveler's Insurance Company.

PERSONAL MENTION.

J. H. Gray has been ordained a deacon in the Episcopal church.

Mrs. J. M. McElroy has returned to her home in Bradford.

C. C. Melvin, democratic candidate for county treasurer, took in our borough on Tuesday.

Bishop Whitehead preached in the Episcopal church last Sunday. Nine persons were confirmed.

Harry Richmond is taking a look at the Kanuck girls and other Canadian curiosities and sights.

Hon. W. W. Brown was in town on Monday, and as is the duty of all congressmen, senators and foreign ministers, called upon the MINER office.

Mrs. M. A. Sprague went to Emporium yesterday to attend the wedding of Miss Blanch Hyde, who was married to a Mr. Sullivan of that borough.

Hon. L. Rogers returned with his family to Harrisburg on Monday. Misses Lucy and Fanny will spend a few days in Warren before returning to the capitol.

John W. Williams, head clerk and cashier at the Grand Central, has been visiting his old home and friends in Buffalo. He returned last evening looking five years younger.

District Attorney and Editor-in-chief McSweeney has his hands full this week drawing indictments for next week's term of court, and is assisted in his editorial duties by Harry Wilson.

Harry Wilson, formerly of the Democrat, has been spending several days in town. The issue of his new paper in DuBois is delayed by the detention of material on the road, which was shipped three weeks ago.

It is a rather singular coincidence that John Forest, Robt. H. Rose, B. F. Wright, Robt. King and S. A. Bishop happened to have business in Bradford upon the same day that Buffalo Bill and his combination of painted Indians, cow boys, buffaloes, mules and other western animals struck the town.

Seasonable Talk.

Every year brings a change in the tastes of the great mass of people and who are growing more particular as to the goods they buy either for adornment or durability, and to properly meet the exactness of such educated tastes requires long experience and good judgment, and there are few who have succeeded so well in this as the popular young men of the firm of Freeman & Drew, and this season they have far excelled all their previous efforts and it would be hard indeed to think of an article usually found in a first-class Furniture Store which cannot be found at their Palace Furniture Emporium, and a look at their advertisement to be found in another column of this issue will be seen that they have knocked the top clear off fresh prices and are selling furniture cheaper than many Furniture Houses can buy at wholesale. A call at their mammoth Furniture Store will amply repay you if in need of goods in their line. Remember the place, No. 92, Main St., Palace Furniture emporium of Freeman & Drew, Bradford, Pa.

A Card.

Having fitted up rooms in my store and arranged to keep Corn, Oats, Feed, Meal, &c., of the best quality, and at all times to sell in small or large quantities, and for READY CASH, (as that is the way I buy) will be pleased to see all who are in need of anything in this line. Also a full line of fresh Groceries always in stock.

A Democratic Rout.

Democratic politicians appear to be unable to look upon the election of Pattison as anything else than a democratic triumph. The mistake enters into every democratic estimate of the result of the approaching election. In spite of the signs and proofs to the contrary, the democrats, from Chairman Hensel down, continue to count upon the casting of a considerable independent vote for the democratic ticket.

There are not even straws for these drowning men to catch at. Not a single independent of prominence except Mr. Wolfe has found any reason to be dissatisfied with the republican convention or the republican ticket. And Mr. Wolfe's letter has not awakened a single sympathetic response. The independents know that the independent battle was fought last year. They know that the fruits of that contest were reaped in this year's convention. The independents participated in the convention; they helped to frame the platform. At least one of the republican candidates was placed upon the ticket because he was a representative of independent thought and action. Political assessments have been abolished. Senators Stewart, Lee and other independents join with Cooper in a hearty support of Niles and Livsey.

Under such circumstances it is a grievous error for Chairman Hensel or any other democrat to suppose that Mr. Wolfe and the democratic party can lift out of obscurity the unknown men whose names are placed upon the democratic ticket. As Mr. Wolfe was among the first to take up arms in behalf of the independent cause, he is the last to lay them down after the victory has been won. Other independents know that a democratic majority in November would effectually cut short in the republican party the progress of the reforms which the independent movement was inaugurated to bring about. Not only this year's contest, but next year's and the future of the republican party in Pennsylvania demand the unqualified support of Niles and Livsey which independents and regulars are giving the republican candidates. The democrats rely upon a broken reed.—Phila. Press.

Free Thinkers.

A score of long-haired men and short-haired women—cranks, all of them—gathered in Rochester last week and dubbed themselves "Free Thinkers' Convention." If deriding chiefly what is worthy and embracing much that is bad constitutes "free thinking," then this gathering of visionary dreamers was correctly named.

About the first thing such a convention does is to assail and denounce the church and christian religion. Now there are many imperfections and some bad persons in the recognized church, but it will take a great many Free Thinkers' Convention to convince the world that a vast amount of good is not accomplished by the believers in the Christian religion. Even if it is established upon a false basis, if its doctrines are fallacious, if it is without divine authority, its wholesome influence cannot be disputed. Once let the churches be closed and church organization abandoned, and pandemonium would soon follow.

If the Free Thinkers depend upon the destruction of modern Christianity to establish themselves in public favor, they have entered upon an impossible accomplishment.—Buffalo Times.

Quick Relief.

Hamilton's Jamaica Ginger Tonic and Pain Cure is not only a valuable internal remedy for all stomach and bowel difficulties such as dyspepsia, indigestion, heartburn, flatulence, diarrhoea, dysentary, cramps and colic, has cannot be excelled for an outward application in rheumatism, neuralgia, sciatica, sprains, side and backache and strains in any part of the body. Used freely with warmth and rubbing it gives quick relief. Price 25 and 50 cents per bottle. Sold by A. B. Armstrong and E. F. Richmond & Son.

Something Impossible.

Newspaper men have frequently to decide how to put every man's advertisement in the same place at the same time; how to put two columns of matter in one column of space; how to display a solid nonpariel advertisement in great primer type and not occupy more space; how to make news when there is none; how to fill a paper with fresh sensations when nothing has happened; how to eulogize a dead man's deeds when he was notoriously bad all his life; how to write the obituary of a man who has called you mullish all his life that will not offend the relatives of the deceased; how to make a grand reception out of a much-and-milk party of six.—Lock Haven Journal.

Rheumatic Syrup Co:

I should have written you before in regard to the Rheumatic Syrup which you sent me, but have been waiting to see if the result was permanent. I can confidently say that it has had a very gratifying effect on my wife, relieving her of all pain within three days after she commenced taking it. I also gave one bottle of the Syrup to a friend, which had the same effect as on my wife. My wife has suffered great pain from rheumatism and kidney difficulty for years, and at times could hardly move. She has tried a great many medicines recommended to no purpose. It is the only remedy that gave her permanent relief. Yours,

GLEASON & LEMMLER.

Smethport, Pa. April 21, 1885

[illegible] at Emporium August [illegible] and were soon rolling rapidly toward that historic spot. At Driftwood we were joined by a delegation from Clearfield county. At Renovo we stopped twenty minutes for supper, took on some more comrades, and at nearly every station we received recruits till we arrived at Harrisburg. Here we were met by Post 8, of Philadelphia, and were joined by the Harrisburg drum corps. We now felt strong enough to move on the enemy's works, but not strong enough to attack our ten dollar a day luxuries that repose serenely on Capitol Hill, so we took the train and moved off to Little York. Here we were furnished with a special train and at 10 a. m. arrived at Gettysburg. We formed in marching order, four deep, a fair sized regiment, led by our band, and started for camp on Cemetery Hill. The streets were thronged with people and buildings covered with flags and mottoes, welcoming the G. A. R., showing that the citizens had not forgotten the services rendered them on the 1st, 2d, and 3d days of July, 1863. The camp is located on Cemetery Hill, east of the turnpike, and overlooking that part of the field where the most of the desperate fighting was done on the second day, and where Lee found that road, like Jordan, a hard one to travel.

We concluded to first pay our respects to our dead heroes, so we passed in at the gate of the cemetery. The first object that meets our view is the statue of the brave John Reynolds, who fell in the first day's fight, and who in his military suit and his glass by his side looks so life like and natural that we instinctively raise our cap. We then went up to the west end bowery, where we had the pleasure of meeting Gen. Osborne, our Department Commander.

We strike across the county to where the fighting commenced on the first day, and where Gen. Reynolds fell, having for company a comrade from Warren county, who was wounded and taken prisoner near the same spot. A man might pass over this field and never think that a terrible battle was fought here, but a man looking for marks would see here and there a tree that had been cut off by a solid shot or had a slab knocked off the side of it. Little else is left to show where the great battle commenced. Having had a good night's rest and partaken of a hearty breakfast, we start along the line of rifle pits leading to our right down across a hollow, up on a rocky ridge. Here our line turns square to the east and in this angle was placed the celebrated Stephen's battery that gave the Rebs so much trouble. From its commanding position it could be turned on every part of the field. We follow on up to the top of Culp's Hill. This position must be seen to be appreciated. On the morning of the second day Lee made a savage attack on this hill, which exposed him to a flank fire from Cemetery Hill. Next he tried Cemetery Hill which exposed him to a flank fire from Culp's Hill, and here the battle raged fiercely all day. Late in the afternoon the Rebs commenced pouring around our right at the base of Culp's Hill, when the Second Mass. Regiment that had been held in reserve on a knoll in a piece of woods to the right and rear of Culp's Hill came out of the woods, and forming at the base of the knoll with fixed bayonets, started on the double quick; striking the Rebs square in the face, and rolling them back, they soon cleared that part of the field. But in this short action, which could not have lasted to exceed twenty minutes, they lost one half of their number. Darkness coming on this ended the second day's fight. The survivors of this regiment have put up a neat stone tablet to the memory of their fallen comrades on the ground where they formed for the fierce charge.

We now start along the line to our left stretching away to Little Round Top, where our left rested. As we follow the line along we come to a post with a board nailed to it bearing this inscription: "This is the place where General Hancock was wounded." We seek the shade of a tree and sit down to rest, and our mind runs back to July 3d, 1863. It is 1 o'clock and there is a lull in the battle that had raged furiously all the forenoon. On our extreme left brave generals look grave and shake their heads, knowing this calm was the precursor of a storm, but not knowing where it would next burst forth. It is 2 o'clock and over near Lee's headquarters there are two cannon shots following each other in quick succession, and as if by magic two hundred brazen throated pieces open up and send their iron hail into our ranks. It now becomes evident that Hancock, who in army parlance commands the left centre of our army, is to receive the shock. Our batteries reply, and under that terrible cannonade the earth trembles and shakes. Hancock orders his batteries to cease firing, and he and his men stand and take that terrible pelting, knowing full well that like distant thunder, it was a certain precursor to a more terrible storm. I think the Rebs here labored under the mistaken idea that they had found the weak point in our lines which they had been looking for for two days. It is 3 o'clock; their batteries cease firing and the Rebs are seen advancing five columns deep, and forty-five thousand strong. Led by the gallant Longstreet, and like a swift storm cloud driving straight on Hancock's corps, who sees there is to be no child's play, and he dashes madly along his line exhorting his braves to stand firm and give the cold lead as soon they come in range. Our batteries open with grape and canister, which makes greater gaps in their ranks, which are quickly closed up, and they pressed on till within easy musket range, when our boys poured in such a deadly fire that flesh and blood could not stand it, and their lines broke in several places. But their officers, with drawn swords and loud cursing rallied them and advanced to the charge and as often as three times on some parts of the field were they rallied and hurled against this rock, (for like Thomas, at Chickamauga, Hancock was the rock of Gettysburg against which the Rebs dashed themselves to pieces.

At last the great charge is broken, Hancock is carried bleeding from the field and Longstreet's veterans have received their first great defeat. It soon becomes evident that Lee has played his last card and lost. The next morning he is in full retreat back to Virginia. Thus ended one of the most desperately contended battles of the war. The loss in this battle has been variously estimated, but from the best sources of information it is pretty certain that it was nearly fifty thousand.

Remember this Soap is cheaper than any other in the market, and yet does all we claim for it.

Yours respectfully,
MRS. MARY C. ST. CLAIR.

PHILADELPHIA, May 15th, 188[illegible]

Messrs. DAY & FRICK:

Gentlemen:—Having for several months used in our family "Day's Cha... Soap," and having, as we believed, tested it thoroughly, we do not hesitate to pronounce it superior to any soap we have ever used. We therefore most heartily recommend it to all who would save labor and time in performing the arduous duties of the household. We find this soap especially adapted for all domestic purposes, and fully entitled to the high claim made for it. No family can afford to be without it, and a fair trial, according to the directions, will confirm our opinion.

Very truly yours,
CHAS. H. THOMAS, Pastor of Frankford Avenue Baptist Church, Phila.

Day's Soap

Save your health,
Save your time,
Save your patience,
By using this Soap.
No unpleasant odors,
No sickness as the result of a hard day's wash.
No hot water,
No wash boiler, but clothes nice and white and as fragrant as new mown hay.

TRY IT.

☞ Wash-day has no terrors for the household where DAY'S SOAP is used, no unpleasant and sickening odors to fill your houses, no laborious rubbing on the wash-board, while the washing can be done in one-half the time necessary by following the old worn-out method.

MADAM—for it is to the ladies we desire to speak more especially—you are the interested person in this matter; you it is that suffers the ills arising from the wash-tub and its heavy cares; you it is to whom the perplexities and responsibilities of the household rightfully belong, and you it is that should interest yourself in a trial of the qualities of this soap, that has always proven itself to be a boon of salvation.

TO SUFFERING HUMANITY.

We do not come to you with a plausible story calculated to have you try it, simply for the amount of money such a sale would bring us; we do not come to you as irresponsible parties, who have no reputation to suffer calumny, but we do present to you this brand of soap upon an absolute guarantee and recommendation of a well-known industrial establishment in Philadelphia, of sixteen years' existence. Do you suppose for a moment it would compensate us to make false statements to you and ruin our well-earned reputation? No, dear reader; what we say about DAY'S SOAP is the truth, and it is sustained by the evidences of thousands of housewives from all over the country; besides which we stand ready to endorse it all with ready cash. ☞ DAY'S SOAP is the Original and only Patented.

DAY'S SOAP { Will clean the Finest Skin and Clothes. Will clean the [illegible] Skin and Clothes. Will clean the [illegible] Skin and Clothes. Will clean Everybody's Skin and Clothes. }

Is there not economy in the use of soap that will clean the skin as well as the clothes? this Day's Soap will surely do. It will in no way injure the finest fabrics or the most delicate complexion.

No soda, no washing crystals, no lyes are to be used, but simply supply yourself for the next wash-day with a bar of DAY'S SOAP, then carefully read the directions and follow them to the exact letter, and if you don't say pitch out that old wash-boiler, for I am a wiser woman, you will be the first person we have yet heard of that has been disappointed.

☞ Now remember—If you don't intend to follow the directions do not try the soap at all, for unless you do this you will be disappointed, and then you will scold us and yourself as well.

The cost of one cake will convince you that it is the best and cheapest soap ever offered you, while the smiles that will encircle your brow will do justice to a golden sunset.

Have you confidence in this newspaper? If so, do you suppose the owner would allow us to swindle his readers by offering them tempting inducements? He uses it in his own home, and can certify to its merits. Now you get a cake from your grocer in time for the next wash-day, and become acquainted with its intrinsic worth.

Ask your grocer for it, and do not allow him to put you off with anything else for a substitute, for every dealer can obtain it and should he refuse you, send direct to

THE BEST

OF ALL

FOR MAN AND BEAST.

For more than a third of a century the Mexican Mustang Liniment has been known to millions all over the world as the only safe reliance for the relief of accidents and pain. It is a medicine above price and praise—the best of its kind. For every form of external pain the

MEXICAN

Mustang Liniment is without an equal. It penetrates flesh and muscle to the very bone—making the continuance of pain and inflammation impossible. Its effects upon Human Flesh and the Brute Creation are equally wonderful. The Mexican

MUSTANG

Liniment is needed by somebody in every house. Every day brings news of the agony of an awful scald or burn subdued, of rheumatic martyrs restored, or a valuable horse or ox saved by the healing power of this which speedily cures such ailments of the HUMAN FLESH as Rheumatism, Swellings, Stiff Joints, Contracted Muscles, Burns and Scalds, Cuts, Bruises and Sprains, Poisonous Bites and Stings, Stiffness, Lameness, Old Sores, Ulcers, Frostbites, Chilblains, Sore Nipples, Caked Breast, and indeed every form of external disease. It heals without scars.

For the BRUTE CREATION it cures Sprains, Swinny, Stiff Joints, Founder, Harness Sores, Hoof Diseases, Foot Rot, Screw Worm, Scab, Hollow Horn, Scratches, Windgalls, Spavin, Thrush, Ringbone, Old Sores, Poll Evil, Film upon the Sight and every other ailment to which the occupants of the Stable and Stock Yard are liable.

The Mexican Mustang Liniment always cures and never disappoints; and it is, positively,

Warranted | The best and cheapest Cough Cure in use. | Warranted | to give satisfaction or money refunded. | Price 25 and 50 cents.

This positive Cough Cure is placed at the exceedingly low price of 25 cents within the reach of all classes; and is guaranteed to perform the desired result, where persistently used. Its intrinsic merit. For Coughs, Colds, and all diseases of the Throat, Lungs and bronchial tubes, it is unparalleled—Healing where all other remedies have failed. Physicians are constantly ordering consumptive patients to the Pine Woods; we have succeeded in bringing all the virtues and vital principles of the "Pineries" to the invalid at home—accomplishing what many have long tried to do. We have demonstrated the perfect possibility of the tar, and thereby its ready absorption into the system—by a much more rapid and general power than merely inhaling the air of the Pineries. This remedial tar, with other valuable vegetable constituents, produces Anderson's Poor Man's Cough Cure, which gives the pleasing result of a sure cure at a small price. It is perfectly safe to be taken as the case may require—small and frequent doses being most effectual in allaying the bronchial irritability. Sold By All Druggists.

The celebrated author, in this admirable essay, clearly demonstrates from a thirty years' successful practice, that the alarming consequences of self-abuse may be radically cured; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

DOWNS' ELIXIR.

N. H. DOWNS'

Vegetable Balsamic

ELIXIR

This valuable medicine is purely vegetable; the discovery of which was the result of many years' close study, in order to discover the cause, the symptoms, and the cure of Consumption, Coughs, Colds, Catarrh, Croup, Asthma, Pleurisy, Hoarseness, Influenza, Spitting Blood, Bronchitis, and every species of Pulmonary Affections of the Chest and Lungs. In all cases where this Elixir has been duly administered its efficacy has been invariably manifested, convincing the most incredulous that is not incurable, if properly attended to. Consumption, at its commencement, is but a slight irritation of the membrane which covers the Lungs; then an inflammation, when the cough is more observable, but rather dry; then becomes local fever and the pulse more frequent, the cheeks flushed and chills more common. This Elixir in curing the above complaints, operates so as to remove all morbid irritations and inflammation from the lungs to the surface, and finally expel them from the system. It facilitates expectoration.

It heals the ulcerated surfaces and relieves the cough and makes the breathing easy. It supports the strength and at the same time reduces the fever. It is free from strong opiate and astringent articles, which are of so drying a nature as to be in great danger of destroying the patient; whereas this medicine never dries or stops the cough, but, by removing the cause, generally destroys the hectic before the cough is entirely gone. Consequently, when the cough is cured the patient is well. Send address for pamphlet giving full directions for cure of pulmonary diseases. Price 35 cts., 50 cts., and $1.00 per bottle. SOLD EVERYWHERE.
